INVICORATING CORDIAL

OR GENITAL DEBILITY, IMPOTENCY, INCONT.

NENCE, OR NOCTURNAL EMISSIONS, &c.—The a tonishing success which has attended this invaluable medicine, for Less of Muscular Energy, Physical Learnizade, and General Prostration, or any of the consequences of youthful indiscretion, or indulgence of the passion in riper years, renders it the most valuable preparation ever discovered.
In fact, as a remedy for the above complaints, it stands unrivalled and aions. There is no other reliable remedy, or any that has authentically received the sanction of the Medical Faculty. The WONDERFUL YEGETABLE PRODUCTION of which this medicine is composed has been tested, and its virtues proclaimed, by the highest names of the faculty of London, Paris, and the chief cities of Europe, as well as by eminent Physicians in this country. It is the only infallible remedy for NERVOUS, HEAD, and MIND COMPLAINTS—the mental physic so long sought for and never before found—the only agent that can administer to MIND DISKASES. Hwill remove all nervous affections, DEPRESSION, EXCITEMENT, incapacity to study or business, less of MEMORY, CONFUSION, thoughts of selfdestruction, fear of insanity, &c. It will restore the appetite, renew the health of those who have destroyed it by some that these disorders, emissions, &c, were incurable.
This, however, is not the fact.

DR. MORSES INVIGORATING CORDIAL has cured, and is constantly curing, these complaints—relieving the his, however, is not the fact.

The nature of the maladies relieved by this Cordial are generally such as to leave the publication of certificates of curse out of the question. The proprietor could produce a host of the most conclusive testimeny to show that the great reputation it emjoys was not accidentally obtained, but is firmly based upon its positive and apparently miraculous virtues. In all directions are to be found the happy parents of healthy offsprings, who would not have been so but for many diseases for which it is recommended.

THE MEDICAL JOURNALS have not, in a single instance that has been authenticated.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, WASHINGTON, Oct. 25, 1852 To the Board of Aldermen and Board of Commo

GENTLEMEN . Information has reached this city of the death of Daniel Webster. He died yester day morning at his late residence, Marshfield I communicate to you the melancholy intelli gence, and respetfully suggest that such measures may be adopted at your meeting this evening as will testify the respect which the Corporate authorities and people of this city entertain for the memory of this distinguished citizen, and their sense of the great loss which the country has sustained in his death.

been almost constantly in one or the other house of that body, or in the Cabinet. In all of these situations he has left imperishable memorials of his gigantic intellect, and of his patriotic devon to the interests, the honor, and renown o his country. Like his great compeers who have recently passes rom among us, Mr. Webster spent so much of his time in our city that he was looked upon alnost as one of our citizens, and in doing honor the memory of the great statesman and pariot, we are rendering a tribute of respect to our neighbor and a true friend of our city. In conclusion, permit me to say that I wil most heartily co-operate with you in any pro-ceedings you may propose in respect to the death of this great man. Respectfully JOHN W. MAURY. In accordance with the suggestion in the above ommunication, the two Boards of the Counc assed the following Joint Resolutions: Resolved, &c. That the two Boards of the Council have learned with profound regret that the great statesman and jurist, Daniel Webster, has joined his compatriots, Calhoun and Clay, in the regions of the dead. That, from his long residence among us, and the interest manifested by him in our various city relations, the corporate authorities de but express the sentiments of the citizens generally this great bereavement. That we sympathise with the whole American

On the opening of the Court this morning, Philip R. Fendall, esq., Attorney of the United States for the District of Columbia, after a feelng and appropriate address, read to the Cour he following proceedings: At a meeting of the members of the Bar an

Webster, and submitted the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the members of this Bar and fficers of the Court have received, with the deepest sensibility, information of the death of Daniel Webster. We have had occasion to see and admire his profound juridical knowledge: his vast proportions, when measured by the ordi-nary standard of the profession; the luminous path which has marked his professional career, and the broad light be gave to illuminate the saths by which others might walk. In common with the whole country, and we may add of the whole civilized world, we have beheld his career as a statesman for more than thirty years, filled with the most important vents in our national history. From the acement of his political career he was identied with all these great events; his commanding oquence, oral and written, present him to our order, thoroughly acquainted with the interests of our country, and competent to guide her councils in the most perilous times.

But it is not alone as a jurist and a statesman we have looked upon him; we knew him as a neighbor and fellow-citizen, and cherished him in all the private and social relations, and we ustly sympathize with the American people, and with them lament his loss.

A great light is quenched; a gigantic intellect sleeps in death; a high and lofty spirit, which is written in the pages of his country's history, and has made its impression, all that affected its true honor and glory, is at rest: a great man, who nobly dared, in an appalling crisis of public af-fairs, to speak those words which shape a nation's destiny, is no more. His example is before us. Resolved, That the members of the Bar and flicers of the Court will wear the usual badge of ourning during the term. Resolved, That the District Attorney do present nese resolutions to the Court, in order that their honors may take such order thereon as to them may seem fit; that these proceedings be publish-ed, and that the chairman communicate them to family of the illustrious deceased, and respectfully tender to them the expression of our

Bread and Butter. Mr. Jordan was a bachelor, on the shady side f forty, and consequently was subject to the ender mercies of boarding-house keepers. Cir-umstances had kept Mr. Jordan an inmate of Mrs. Wiggins's boarding-house for a long time, and Mrs. Wiggins was a lady of one idea - namely, economy. Her experiments in economical philoso-phy and philosophical economy were, for the most part, brought to bear upon the stomachs of er boarders, as "vittles" is the principal item of expense in mediecre boarding-houses. Mr. ordan had been startled by some of the aforesaid present and certain evil "rather than fly to others hat he knew not of," until one day when butter was scarce and high, Mrs. Wiggins hit upon the conomical plan of spreading with her own economical hands the butter upon the allowance of bread she doled out to her boarders, excusing rself for this interferance in their affairs by ating, in the blandest manner, that she assumed hat task cheerfully, to save them the trouble! Mr. Jordon came home to tea rather late upon he first evening of this new dodge, sat down in Mr. Webster gave most of his long life to the presence of all the other boarders, and received service of the public. He entered Congress a slice from Mrs. Wiggins, who had gene through nearly forty years ago, since which time he has the ceremony of burning it before his eyes. Mr. rdan eyed the bread inquisitively, and began turn the bread from side to side, and scrutiize it closely through his spectacles.

"What is the matter with your bread and utter?" demanded Mrs. Wiggins. "Nothing-nothing-nothing" replied Mr. Jorlan, still turning the piece over, and persisting in his scrutiny. "I'm positive, Mr. Jordan, that you do see mething. Now I want," said Mrs. Wiggins,- want my boarders to tell me right out when their vittles does not sute! Now, Mr. Jordan, what Mr. Jordan laid down the slice upon his plate, aised his spectacles to his forehead, and replied her face becoming flushed with excitement-"I ith great deliberation-"Mrs. Wiggins, there's nothing the matter with the bread, I assure you. But, Mrs. Wig-gins," and here Mr. Jordan glanced mischievasly down the vista of attentive faces, "I have lived in this world eight and forty years, and I find myself this evening such a simpleton that I an't tell which side of my bread is buttered!"
